Child Abuse, Domestic Violence, and Animal Abuse: Linking the Circles of Compassion for Prevention and Intervention

Frank R. Ascione, Ph.D., and Phil Arkow, Editors

Sponsored by the Latham Foundation

Publisher: Purdue University Press

ISBN: 1557531420

Evidence is mounting that animal abuse is frequently embedded in families scarred by domestic violence and child maltreatment, and often predicts the potential for other violent acts. This landmark book is a compilation of original essays that argue compellingly that violence prevention programs are enhanced by including animal protection personnel and by recognising animal maltreatment as a human welfare issue. It includes original research, strategic interventions, and dramatic tales from survivors of multiple forms of family violence. The book is an historic step in helping professionals from the three fields recognize their interconnectedness and in encouraging cross-disciplinary training, prevention, and intervention.

EarthKind, a teacher's handbook on Humane Education'

David Selby

Perhaps the single most valuable source of information available to humane educators. EarthKind has closed down, but it can be purchased from the British Colombian SPCA:

<http://www.sPCA.bc.ca/book.htm>

VideosThe Association for the Study of Animal Behaviour

<http://www.societies.ncl.ac.uk/asab/products.html>

Has the following excellent videos, that can be used to great effect by animal protection societies – accepted for their scientific value, but imparting key humane educational messages.

◆ Stimulus Response

An excellent teaching video for secondary school science classes (ages 14-19). Shows how animals perceive stimuli, demonstrating remarkable receptors, have the ability to learn (from videos too!), and how they respond to the stimuli of their environment. Enhances understanding of animal behaviour and responses.

◆ Let's Ask The Animals

An excellent video for primary school children (aged 7-13) designed for use in science classes. Shows links between humans and animals in life processes, and gives new perspectives on farm animals. Enhances understanding of animals and their lives and motivations.

PSYETA

<http://www.psyeta.org/>

PSYETA's Web Site includes some interesting general information. It also contains a video and resources on the link between violence against animals and violence against humans.
